

12g Hammer Gun by William Powell – 30 x 2 1/2? barrels

Description

Now this a beautiful gun. I've had a few of these over the years, but they've all tended to be quite well shot and worn. This particular gun has a bloom of original hardening colour, the woodwork hasn't ever been restored and all-in-all it's in fabulous condition built circa 1840 with 30? damascus barrels and a 14? stock, the gun is fitted with Powell's patent lift-up trigger system, the rebounding locks have nose-less hammers, and it is a bar-in-wood action. There is a small amount of engraving, mainly border engraved, an incredibly stylish gun.

WEIGHT: 7lbs

CONDITION: A couple of minute marks in both tubes (which will polish out if required), traces of original hardening colour.
