

12g A&D ejector by Harrison Bros – 28? x 2 3/4? barrels

Description

This is quite an interesting big gun by Harrison Bros, which I suspect was built in the 1950s. Steel barrels measure 28? x 2 3/4?, and the gun is fitted with a quick-sighting, raised, cross-filed Churchill rib, and a third locking grip. Sparsely engraved with panels of scroll, the gun has a 14 1/2" pistol grip stock, including a Silver's recoil pad, a full spindle lever system, rocker safe, and Southgate ejectors. Once again, it will make a good, reliable gun. With the left choke reduced this gun will comfortably fire standard steel cartridges.
