

12g hammergun by Theophilus Murcott – 28? x 2 1/2? barrels

Description

This Murcott hammergun was built circa 1870. New barrels measure 28? x 2 1/2?, choked full and full, so these could be regulated to your preferred choking. Engraving style on the action and locks is fine scroll with ornate borders. Fitted with non-rebounding locks, a 2 shot underlever opening system and a replacement stock, somebody has spent a fortune on this gun at some stage in its life. With the chokes regulated, this will make a great shooter.
