

Pair of 12g A&D ejectors by Westley Richards

Description

This is a pair of 12g A&D ejectors by Westley Richards. The guns were built circa 1900 and are engraved with fine scroll, a pointing dog and pheasants on the bow of the guards. The scroll backed actions retain a small amount of original hardening colour. They have 28" x 2 3/4" steel barrels, the No 2 has a marginal left barrel wall. The guns have 15 1/4" highly figured stocks with wooden extension pieces. They come in their maker's oak and leather case with trade labels. A cheap pair of well made British box locks by this famous maker.
